MONDAY EVENING, JANUARY 31.

GEN. MAHONE ON THE TOBACCO TAX.—On Friday last, in presenting in the Senate the various petitions from Virginia asking the entire repeal of the tobacco tax, Gen. Mahone made some remarks of an exceedingly interesting character, which, through some inadvertence, were not noted in the regular report of the Senate proceedings. The subject of the tobacco tax first, and of the tax on fruit distillations second, is one of pregnant importance in a very large section of the Southern States, and one in which the Senators and members from the sections concerned take a very deep interest. Gen. Mahone said the time had gone by when the pretext that tobacco is a luxury can be availed of for the imposition of prohibitive laws and burdens. Tobacco, he said, enters too largely into our agricultural and manufacturing interests, provides too many people employment and the means of sustenance, and gives activity to too much capital to be claimed as a narcotic or a luxury. The consumption of coffee in the United States per capita is not double that of tobacco and of tea only one-fifth. The cultivation of tobacco in 1885 gave employment to over 200,000 people, and in 1886 its manufacture gave employment to over 600,000 people. Tobacco is an important industry for at least twenty of the States, and its culture is common to all. Gen. Mahone then gave the following unique calculation as to the effect of the removal of the tax: "It will enter the home of the workmen everywhere and leave a saving on every five pounds of tobacco consumed sufficient to purchase eight pounds of sugar, or three pounds of coffee, or one pound of tea, or fifteen pounds of flour, or five of bacon, or eight yards of calico, or six yards of shirting or two of flannel." In the course of his remarks Gen. Mahone threw in a word or two about the "beneficent policy of protection." With this the tariff reformers, of course, have nothing to do, while agreeing with him probably in what he says as to tobacco and fruit distillations. The tax on fruit distillations amounts to comparatively an insignificant sum, but it bears heavily on the small farmers, who are almost the only people engaged in it, and who, as he says, rely upon such products to provide clothing and groceries for their families.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhea, griping in the bowels, and wind-colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25 cents a bottle.
